FLOWER AND TREE.

Mildew on roses may be cured by dusting with flowers of sulphur when the bush is damp. It is better to cut away the dead wood from a tree, even if the tree is disfigured, than to allow it to remain. One of the best remedies for the rose slug is a strong stream of water from a small hose. Repeat several times a week. A tree frequently replanted grows more readily than one never disturbed. At each removal there is a tendency to grow fibrous roots. The basswood or Linden makes a pretty shade tree. If you have bees they will gather a good crop of rich honey from the Linden trees.

AMERICANS.

Americans are longer lived than Europeans, stronger physically and recover more readily from wounds. Within historic times America has furnished to Europe many new plants—tobacco, maize, the potato—but no new disease. American society is in one respect the most democratic in the world. Equality enters the family. The father is far less the head of the house than elsewhere in civilized nations. Francis Parkman in Rome fifty years ago described the Americans he saw as "rather pale and thin men, not like beefed and ruddy Englishmen." Scant two generations have made the comparison utterly inapplicable.

A Suicidal Family.

At the inquest on a Portsmouth (England) man who had committed suicide the remarkable fact was brought out that nine of his relatives had put an end to themselves.

North American Indians. Ethnologists are of opinion that when America was discovered there were not on the continent of North America any more Indians than exist now.

The Condor. The condor keeps its young longer in the nest than any other bird. Fully twelve months elapse before the young condors can fly.
